With 100 litre capacity - the ideal sac for those on extended journeys where resupply is not possible.

Description

A serious expedition rucksack for those who like to go the extra mile, the Vulcan is the ideal bag for those extended journeys when re-supply is not possible. Designed with an aluminium alloy frame Cyclops®II back system for serious load carrying, this 100 Litre rucksack is made from tough textured nylon, reinforced to give maximum durability and extreme abrasion resistance.

- This pack is rigid but light - it has a HE30TF aluminium alloy frame
- Plenty of space to take everything you need for the journey with a 100 Litre capacity, complete with top tension straps and side and base compression straps to make packing easy
- Versatile for shorter trips too, just remove the detachable Multi Mission Side Pockets (MMPS) and zip them together to make a handy daysack
- Take adverse weather in your stride - fix a walking pole or ice axe to the attachment point for easy accessibility
- Carry your canteen or any other accessory on one of the six attachment points
- Front and back reinforced haul loops will ensure that you can move your fully loaded pack with relative ease
- Never get caught out, even when the snow is falling with the ski attachment points on the side pockets

ORDER CONFIRMATION

The body length is an indication for the size of a rucsac with Cyclops II back system. Cyclops II is applied on Atlas, Crusader, Spartan and Vulcan packs. The back length differs from person to person. In case of doubt it is recommended to fit the rucsac, preferably with weight inside, to determine the right size.
