Description

Revolt firesteel is a revolutionary kind of a flint for the most demanding customers. It combines the simplicity of classic functionality with modern stylistic aesthetics. Handle with a waterproof locker inspired by the pattern of tactical knives handles and made of aircraft aluminum is a guarantee of reliable durability and light weight. Under the twist-off cap you will find a cache with a paraffin fuse and a spark striker inside. A paraffin fuse is something in between a classic firework fuse and a candlewick. It is very easy to light (just a few sparks from a flint) and at the same time, burning slower than a fuse, it produces a flame similar to a candlewick. What is important, after the flame is blown out, it still smolders for some time, giving the possibility to use the embers if necessary. Thanks to the serrated blade, if necessary can be used as a micro-knife (can successfully cut e.g. a rope/string) or a scraper (can grind e.g. huba for kindling or more magnesium filings from the core of the flint). There is no better way to ignite the flame of revolution than strike a spark with the Revolt firesteel.

Specifications:

- A classic magnesias core with 8 mm diameter and 7.5 cm length
- Total lenght 12.7 cm
- Weight 45 g
