Description

The impressive Respect is a personal interpretation of the traditional American Bowie knife, designed by Spyderco founder Sal Glasser. True to its name, every single one of the 354 grams of weight makes you respect it. The hefty 6 mm blade of powder metallurgical CPM-154 has a flat grind to achieve the best possible cutting geometry. An "old school" crossguard and seamless G10 scales around the tang complete the impressive appearance. The Respect comes with a handmade leather sheath.

Spyderco

The first pocket knife from Spyderco has been manufactured in 1981, even back then they used the so called "Spyderhole", a round hole in the blade. With the help of the hole, the knives can be opened very easily and fast by only using the thumb of the leading hand. During the years Spyderco has become one of the world leading brands and is now worldwide the supplier of different emergency forces from the police and military. Countless innovations, perfect workmanship and using the best materials guarantee top drawer products.
